NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE BEATEN BY BEACH CLUB

In a hard-fought battle the Ocean Beach Club defeated the Neighborhood House team by a score of 3 to 2 last Sunday afternoon on the beach diamond. Nielson pitched an excellent game, striking out 16, but was touched for eight hits. James also hurled in top form, and allowed six hits, striking out eight. Mayer gathered two hits out of five chances for the losers, and Stolle and Meadows got two out of four each for the winners. Score:

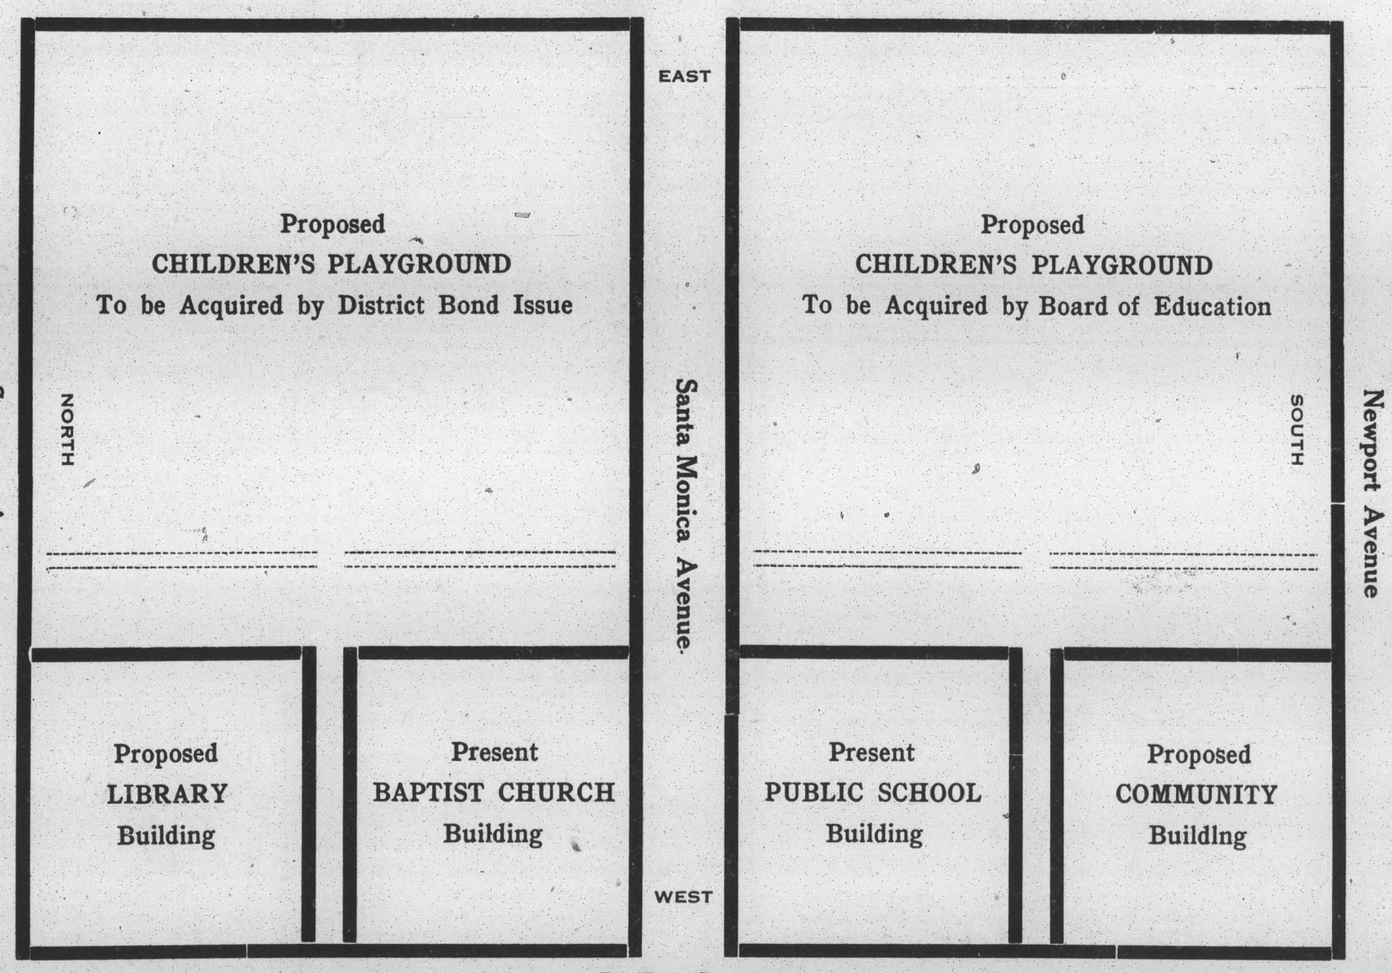
EX-CHIEF McMULLEN IN RACE FOR COUNCIL

Former Chief of Police, S. P. McMullen, took out papers this week announcing his candidacy for the city council at the forthcoming election and hosts of his friends are predicting success for him in the race.

DIAGRAM OF OCEAN BEACH CIVIC CENTER



LEGEND—The accompaniny diagram shows the outlines of the magnificent Ocean Beach Civic Center as proposed through the co-operation of the San Diego Community Service, the Board of Education, the O. B. Chamber of Commerce and the various local civic organizations. The plans, as published in detail in "The Beach News" of February 21, have been fully approved by expert city planners of high national reputation and have been unanimously commended by leading city officials, as well as most enthusiastically endorsed by a great majority of loyal beach citizenry. Besides the fine array of civic buildings, fronting for two blocks on the main boulevard, the park features will include: ornamental trees and a border of shrubs and flowering hedge surrounding the entire area of two complete blocks, bounded by Newport avenue on the south, Saratoga avenue on the north, De Foe street on the west and Ebers street on the east. The proposed Children's Playground area at the rear of the two plots will be divided from the row of civic buildings by a line of beautifully appropriate shrubbery. Across from the contemplated Library building on Saratoga avenue and De Foe street, the O. B. Catholic church is already attractively situated, while the Congregational building is located directly opposite the Public School on De Foe street, all tending to enhance the concentrative value of an ideal civic center.

VOTE FOR THE LIBRARY BONDS

Fred A. Heilbron A Civic Booster

MAYORALTY CANDIDATE IS A QUALIFIED LAWYER AND BUSINESS MAN

San Diego has passed the small town stage and must prepare to do big things in a big way, according to Councilman Fred A. Heilbron, candidate for mayor.

Development of an adequate and assured supply of water for the San Diego of tomorrow; development of port facilities, and encouragement of legitimate commercial and industrial enterprises, are among the important tasks confronting the city, he declares, but in the process of achieving these objectives more than passing thought should be given to maintaining in San Diego and its environs those distinctive qualities which make this city the ideal home city.

During his six years in the city council, Mr. Heilbron said, he has stood out strongly for park improvement, tree planting and the like. It is recalled that a tree planting program which he initiated in 1920 was the first time in the city's history that a progressive plan of beautifying the city streets had been undertaken.

An interesting sidelight on Mr. Helibron's career, and one not generally known, is that he is a qualified lawyer, having been admitted to the bar of the state in 1916. He has not practiced law, his object in becoming proficient in that profession being to fit himself more fully for his business enterprises. Incidentally his legal ability has stood him well in reaching intelligent solutions of important problems, the most recent being that pertaining to San Diego's water litigation.

REGISTRATIONS JUMP MORE THAN FIVE THOUSAND SINCE LAST ELECTION

City Clerk Allen H. Wright, has announced that it will be necessary to issue a special supplement to the great register for use in the primary and general elections March 24 and April 7, owing to the great increase in registrations throughout the city since the El Capitan election last November. The gain averages more than 1,500 a month with a total of over 5,000 newly registered voters. City Clerk Wright states that upwards of 50,000 sample ballots will be mailed out for the primary election, March 24.

More Pay For Election Work

The city clerk's office is handling the details of five elections occurring from March 24 to April 1. The first of these is the city primary election March 24. On the same day and at the same polling places the voters will pass on two bond propositons, one for a $60,000 library issue and the other for $130,000 to pave roads around the park.

Under the terms of a resolution passed by the council last Tuesday, the pay of election officers at the primary was raised from $4 to $5. This was done at the request of the city clerk, as the election officers will handle the bond election as well as the primary.

O. B. CHAMBER HOLDS REGULAR MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

The regular monthly meeting of the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce will take place next Monday night, March 2, when important civic matters will be discussed and acted upon.

All members are urged to be present.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES FOR EIGHT CITY JOBS AT COMING ELECTION

Registration for the city primary election closed last Saturday, but voters have until March 7 to register for the general election, while prospective candidates for city offices have until that time to file their nominating petitions. For the eight offices to be filled, there are already thirty-two candidates in the field, besides two having withdrawn on account of charter disqualifications.

Just now there are 18 aspirants to councilmanic honors, six for the board of education, seven for mayor, and one for treasurer, while it is expected a number of candidates will bob up before the closing of the entry lists a week hence.

FIRST WORLD FLIGHT BEGAN AND ENDED HERE AT ROCKWELL FIELD

The First National bank of San Diego, of which F. J. Belcher, Jr., is president, has completed the mailing oof 30,000 letters to bank presidents throughout the United States and Canada. These letters convey an invitation to visit San Diego and added force is given to the invitation to round out itineraries of California trips by including San Diego, is the double page spread of lithographed views of interesting local features.

These include the landing of the around-the-world aviators at Rockwell field Sept. 24; air-view of Point Loma, North Island, portions of Coronado, bay, and San Diego's waterfront; Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, world flier, making an address at the stadium; aquaplaning and polo scenes at Coronado beach; picture from an airplane of the city's business district; Balboa park and mountains in the background and scenes at the Spreckels outdoor organ pavilion.

Language Learned Helps To Earn

SPANISH CLASS TO HOLD OPEN MEETING NEXT THURSDAY

Mr. Lesley P. Brown, of the State College, will address an open meeting of the Ocean Beach Spanish Class at eight o'clock on Thursday evening, March 5, in the local school. Mr. Brown holds his bachelor's and master's degrees from Yale and Harvard universities and was for some time an instructor in romanic languages at the University of Chicago. His address will be on the subject, "The Spain of the Twentieth Century," based upon his observations during three extensive visits to that country. Preceding the address the students will present a short program of Spanish music and poetry. All who are interested in the language are cordially urged to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear a speaker of recognized standing in this field.

In this connection, Mr. Kaulfers, instructor of the class requests "The Beach News," to announce that no new classes in Spanish will be offered locally this semester. Students may enroll in the present class as auditors at any time, however, with the privilege of participating in such work of the class as they may feel capable of doing. The vocabulary building period from 7:45 to 8:15 each Thursday evening, for example, should be of interest alike to those desiring to establish an acquaintance with the language, and to more advanced students desiring to increase their conversational vocabularies.

Candy Concession For Mission Beach

MANAGER H. S. BURNS ANNOUNCES ANOTHER GRANT FOR GREAT RESORT

With the announcement of the award of the sweets concession this week by Herbert S. Burns, general manager of amusements and concessions at Mission Beach, further positive evidence is given of the approach of the grand time for the opening of the new amusement center in Mission Beach, where the class of buildings and general appointments and arrangements will surpass any other seaside resort in this country. E. J. Wright, proprietor of Candyland, a San Diego enterprise, was awarded the new concession and the Mission Beach candy headquarters will be situated in the northwest corner shop room of the great bathhouse with an ocean front shop on the esplanade and opposite the dance hall and cafe building.

Sweet Shop and Soda Fountain

Besides a candy shop, the new concession will include a soda fountain, 30 feet long, and booths and tables for patrons. Decorations will be carried out in hormany with the style of architecture and decoration of the fine big bathhouse.

Mr. Wright sttaes that no expense will be spared to make it a fitting part of the palatial structure and he figures an outlay of over $20,000 in order to perfect his plans for catering to the patrons of the wonderful new beach resort. Under his concession privilege Mr. Wright will operate a soda fountain on the spectators' tarrace, surrounding the plunge in the bathhouse. A nook is left in a side wall for installation of such a fountain of 15 feet length. In connection with this fountain tables and chairs will be placed about the spacious terrace. Moreover, the concession extends outside the building onto the beach. Uniformed boys will offer wares of the candy shop and fountain refreshments to bathers and visitors along the beach sands.

NOTED MAGAZINE WRITER PASSES AWAY

Miss Beatrice Boardman Pickett, well known writer of magazine articles, passed away last Tuesday, at her home in La Jolla, after a short illness, having contracted pneumonia on a recent trip north. Memorial services were held at the Mission Hills Congregational church, last Thursday afternoon. Miss Pickett was a daughter of Mrs. Julia D. Pickett of 3645 Third street, San Diego.

O. B. LIBRARY

MARGARET RANKIN, Librarian

Less than one month to work for the Library Bonds which will provide the San Diego Branch Library system with adequate equipment. The need is great—90,000 books circulated from the Logan Heights Branch in 1924. 80,000 books from the University Heights Branch and at present the book shelves are over the windows because there is no more room. The O. B. B. is third largest and circulated 55,983 books in 1924.

The library is a helpful institution it serves all ages and classes of people; the young mothers come for books on the care and feeding of children, the home-builders for house plans, the musician for music, the men have found just the thing to better their business, auto-repairing, electricity, etc. The children form the reading habit by using the library which is a pleasure through life. The teachers come for additional books; the reading of one class improved 50 per cent by this increase of interesting books, the school has always had splendid co-operation with the library.

"The public library is the greatest institution in the city for the continuous education of the adult, and is second only to public schools in education of the children in the city."

By voting the bonds San Diego will have attractive branch buildings. Ocean Beach will receive $15,000.

Mail Bandit Gives New His Rifle

Probably the most unusual gift to be received by a cabinet officer was the rifle sent to Postmaster General Harry S. New by Brent Glasscock and his wife Avis. Community Building

Fine Artistic Effects Found in Brick Facing

From an artistic point of view, brick makes strong claims to consideration. An endless variety of color tones and textures is offered for your choice which you may use in uniform shades, or, preferably, in blended shades of the most delicate and charming effects. No other building material can approach face brick in the possibility of color schemes for the wall surface, either within or without—and the colors last, for they are an integral part of the enduring brick.

But to the artistic effect of the brick texture and color must be added the artistic effects secured by the treatment of the bond and mortar joint. The manner in which the brick are made to overlap in the wall has a decided influence on the result, and the mortar joint, in color, size, and kind is so important that we strongly urge you to talk the matter over with some experienced brick salesman before building. The mortar joint may spoil or make the beauty of your wall.

The economic merits of the face brick house are striking. From the very nature of the material and its construction you save on upkeep or maintenance, on depreciation, on insurance rates, on fuel, and even on doctor's bills. Brick do not decay, they require no paint, their depreciation is practically nil, they make a tight wall that saves fuel, and a sanitary one that prevents vermin.

When it comes to sentimental reasons, your sense of satisfaction in having a substantial and attractive house, of justifiable pride and self-respect in possessing a home of distinction which your friends and neighbors admire, is a sort of imponderable value really worth more than money.—Chicago Post.

Would Divorce Politics From City Government

One feature of the recent meeting in Boston of the National Municipal league was the recognition of the need in American cities of more businesslike forms of government. A fact that has been receiving much emphasis lately was given particular attention: It was that the task of running a city is primarily a business and not a political undertaking. There was reference to the enormous expenditures that are being made by practically all the leading centers of the country and to the waste and inefficiency that political control of city affairs has entailed.

Many of the speakers at the league sessions believed a remedy for this situation had been found in the manager plan of municipal government. They saw in that plan, as it has been adopted in Cleveland, one of the largest of American cities, a release from the traditional and unsatisfactory ward system, from the antiquated two-house council and from undue partisanship in the selection of council members. There was a feeling of confidence that this plan, which permitted appointment by the people's representatives of an able executive head for the city, would prove as effective in a large center as it had proved in hundreds of smaller cities of the United States.—Kansas City Star.

Home Owner Best Citizen

In most cases the man who owns a home has indebtedness thereon. He finds it necessary to meet this indebtedness promptly and to do so he must be steadily employed. He cannot afford to be changing jobs frequently. This means that if he wishes to remain a home owner, he must be a steady worker. The conclusion is that the man who owns a home is a steady worker and to the merchant a steady worker is a safer credit risk.

All things being equal it is generally conceded that the man who owns his home, while he may not be more honest than the renter, is a more desirable credit risk.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Paint Pays Dividends

Painting serves three very fundamental purposes. It protects the woodwork, it adds cash value to the home and lot, making the home an asset to the community, and it establishes a firmer credit rating for your home.

Any banker will tell you that well-painted buildings are an indication of thrift. Appearances in many cases may make or break the business transaction.

Spread on the Paint

The fact that paint and varnish products are, first of all, preservers should not be forgotten. We paint the exteriors of our houses because we desire that they shall endure. And in the course of endurance we find that we have beautified our homes.

Winter Work Advocated

Economy is the chief reason for doing building remodeling in the "off-season," say builders, who are urging that this type of work be done in the winter. They point out that both labor and materials are cheaper than at the summer's peak and that the home-owner can get better service on this type of work than when contractors are busy with larger jobs. Most contractors are said to be willing to take small jobs with a minimum of profits in order to keep their crews.

Bringing Aerial Through Window

Lead-in Strap Will Aid in Making More Efficient Installation.

Radio has shown that many of us are far from being mechanical geniuses. In the early days of radio, back when every one built his own apparatus from socket to variometer, the problem of an aerial was an easy matter. The hardest job was convincing the landlord it would not invite disastrous calamity in the shape of lightning or flood.

The radio fan of yesterday was a mechanic from necessity. To install a radio set one needed to be an expert electrician. Where the lead-in came through the window and side of the house, for example, it was necessary to drill a hole and insert a long porcelain tube. Ordinary drills were too short for this purpose. It needed an extension bit, such as electricians use to drill through floors.

The inventive minds of the radio world have been busily training to ease the troublesome task of installing a radio set. One of the kinks along this line of progress that has come to notice is the lead-in strap that solves the particular problem of bringing the aerial through the side of the house into the room where the set is to be used.

The strap consists of a strip of heavily tinned copper which has a phanestock clip soldered to each end. Heavy insulation is wrapped around the center of the strap and under this is placed a strip of stout webbing. The strap is placed on the window sill, as shown in the illustration, and the window is closed, the sill resting on the insulated part.

It is a difficult matter to solder connections in an aerial system and, unless the joints are soldered or well-made, they soon corrode when exposed to the atmosphere. The lead-in wire may be fastened directly to the phanestock clip; the wire to the set is fastened on the other end.

It is often better to place a lead-in at the top of the window, where it will be out of the way and there will be no danger of disturbing it by opening the window. It is better protected from the window in this manner and the lead-in does not show in front of the window. This labor-saver lightens the task of erecting an aerial and makes a more efficient installation. It has gained the favor of the landlords because its use does not in any way spoil the appearance of the woodwork of the building.

RADIO RHYMES

By Robert Stewart Sutliffe.

TWO BUGS

YOUNG SLIM JONES was out for radio, with heart as well as head; it had him in a demon grip, the smiling neighbors said; he read it, talked it, wrote it, dreamed it, morning, noon and night; the old barn where he tinkered with it surely was a sight.

With odds and ends and things he'd purchase, he made many a set, and then he'd try out some new wrinkle to reception get; he'd take it down and reassemble, rebuild this or that, and when outdoors, he used an outfit built within his hat.

He had antennae on the housetop, loops he moved about; he even tried to get Alaska on a water spout; but the paramount ambition that was in his head, was how to get some good transmission, through springs upon his bed.

But this was where young Slim was bested, it somehow wouldn't go, although he tried a lot of tricks he'd learned 'bout radio; he tested out his whole equipment, tried a hundred things, but no signal, voice or music e'er came through the springs.

Then one day he told his problem to an engineer; told him how he had adjusted all his bedstead gear; how he'd tried out all the jim-cracks of his A1 set; but the springs had always failed him, not a sound he'd get.

Patiently the fellow listened; then said with a shrug: "Youngster, in your bedstead circuit, I have found a 'bug.'"

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

LACKING VISION

HE WHO treads in a beaten round, clings to ideas that have been worn threadbare, chooses to follow the lead of others, without investigation of their methods, is not destined by nature to paint a masterpiece, carve a living marble or rise beyond mediocrity in any one of the ordinary fields of human endeavor.

He lacks the fire, the spirit, the divine force that bespeaks mastery and magnificent achievement over space and material.

He is blind to the glorious heights forever calling to the original man or woman who possesses what the world calls vision.

James J. Hill visioned the slumbering wealth of the great Northwest and built a railroad that brought thousands of homes and millions of dollars to farmers, tradesmen and mechanics who sensed his keen perception, but knew not its meaning.

Vision is difficult to demonstrate in words, yet one word defines it—faith!

We can feel it in the personality of the man or woman who has it. We can sense its dynamic thrill in his or her voice. We are stirred to the heart-core by its magnetism and swept along by its invisible force as a flower is whirled downstream to remind the weeds in the regions that beauty, loveliness and grandeur are to be found in enduring abundance up among the hills and productive highlands.

The lifelong and heroic labors of the men and the women of vision are only efforts that count in the world's work; the only labor that endures and gives inspiration to the rising generation; the only labor that keeps the world safely on its upward course.

Our great museums of art and science would be bare were it not for the men and women of vision, who put forth their hands in God's name, march out into the unknown and dare and do, while the incompetent follow the beaten track with never a new thought nor even a new word!

We have but touched the crust of wonderful things that lie all about us in the air, in the sea, in the earth waiting for the men and women with vision to lay them bare and utilize them for the common benefit of mankind.

The great achievements of this age are destined to fade and wither before the grander things yet to come, seen even now by souls given vision by the Omnipotent. Give your vision full rein and drive on in faith.

Undreamed things await you. They shall be your heritage!

Mother's Cook Book

Man may be the head of the family, but far better than that, woman is the heart of it.—Punch.

SOMETHING GOOD

THE following stew may be prepared of tame ducks when the wild are out of season:

Stew of Wild Ducks.

Cut up a pair or more of wild ducks as for fricassee, and let boil ten minutes in barely water to cover, with one onion and one carrot cut into slices. Remove the duck meat, drain, dredge with flour mixed with salt and pepper and cook in a little hot fat until brown. Meanwhile add to the water in which the duck was parboiled, a minced shallot, and a bunch of sweet herbs; then put in the brown pieces of duck, cover closely and cook for two hours or until tender. Remove the duck, thicken the liquid with browned flour, one cupful of cream and one well-beaten egg. Stir until the egg is set, pour over the duck meat, garnish with curled celery and slices of lemon.

Sweet Pepper Souffles.

Cut the membranes and remove them and the seeds from four sweet peppers, then parboil. Put through a meat chopper, mix with two tablespoonfuls of fine crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of flour, blended with an equal quantity of cream, stirred into the slightly beaten yolks of two eggs. Season with one-half teaspoonful of salt, a little pepper and a pinch of poultry seasoning. The whole should be as thick as a stiff batter. Add two well-beaten egg whites. Place at once in greased individual molds, or in paper cases, filling them two-thirds full. Bake in a hot oven until well puffed.

For a pretty dessert fill individual pastry shells with whipped cream which has been mixed with a few tablespoonfuls of preserved strawberries. The fresh ones, of course, are preferable when they can be obtained.

Connecticut Chow-Chow.

Take seven pounds of green tomatoes, six pounds of apples. Put the tomatoes through the meat chopper, add one cupful of salt and let them stand over night. Drain and add a quart of vinegar or enough to cover, one-fourth pound of mixed spices, cloves, allspice and cinnamon tied in two small bags and boil twenty minutes, then add the apples also chopped without peeling; cool until tender and put into a stone crock.

Quick Dessert.

Prepare rounds of buttered toast or plain cake, place on a pretty serving dish, spread with any sort of jelly or jam at hand, and put a teaspoonful of whipped cream on each. Beaten egg white may be used instead of the cream; in this case place in a glass baking dish and brown in the oven.

Rice Parfait.

Cook one-half cupful of rice in boiling salted water until the grains are soft; drain and cool. Just before serving mix lightly with a cupful of well-sweetened cream and one-half cupful of diced, very cold pineapple, thoroughly drained. Pile lightly in a glass dish.

Banana Fluff.

Rub two or three ripe bananas through a ricer and mix with a cupful of stiffly beaten cream, sweeten slightly; pile in sherbet cups and sprinkle with a little grated chocolate or cocoa.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

LOVE AND SHOES

PLACE the heel of one shoe upon the instep of the other for three consecutive nights before going to bed and you will dream of your future husband. That is a common superstition among New England girls. Possibly the superstition obtains also in other parts of the country. It is based upon the old idea of the subjection of the wife to the husband of which a superimposed shoe is symbolical. "Over Edom will I cast my shoe," sang David when he threatened the subjection of the land of the Edomites.

In a pamphlet of the first part of the Seventeenth century it is mentioned as being an ancient custom that "When at any time a couple were married the sole of the bridegroom's shoe was to be laid upon the bride's head implying with what subjection she should serve her husband."

The symbolism is obvious, and in the ancient days when the position of the married woman was one of entire subjection to her husband, one shoe placed upon the top of another would suggest the idea of marriage. Now to primitive man what was associated in thought was associated in fact. Therefore, one shoe placed upon another had an actual connection with marriage by a phase of sympathetic magic. So when the New England girl arranges her shoes with the heels of one upon the instep of the other, the upper shoe represents her future husband's and the lower one her own. The power of sympathetic magic is set working and her future spouse appears to her in a dream.

QUESTIONS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

DADDY always says that I'm
Such a magpie when I climb
On his knee at supper time.

That is what I always do
Just as soon as supper's through—
Maybe sometimes sooner, too.

Ev'ry night there's always so
Many things I want to know:
How they do things in a show,

How to fix Belinda's arm,
Why he doesn't buy a farm,
Can the witches really charm?

Where the stars are all the day,
Why do horses run away?
Is "Gosh darn it" bad to say?

When we going to get a car?
Is Chicago very far?—
My, so many things there are!

"Goodness gracious, mercy me!"
Says my mamma, "Can't you see,
Papa's tired as he can be?"

Daddy says, "Oh, she's all right;
I'm not very tired tonight;
But she surely is a fright."

Then he rubs his fuzzy chin
On my cheek and makes me grin,
Then to tickle I begin.

Oh, I have just loads of fun
With my dad when supper's done—
Mamma, too, and ev'ryone.

But, tucked in from toe to head
And my "Now—I—lay—me" said,
I remember, up in bed,

That he never answered those
Things I asked him that he knows;
He forgot to, I suppose.

Editor "The Beach News":—

Please find enclosed $1.00 for my yearly subscription to your valuable paper. I am not just sure when my subscription runs out, so I am sending it in for I certainly don't want my paper to stop, we watch the "Beach News" to keep us posted on the progress of Ocean and Mission Beaches. By the way, please give us a boost in your paper. We are the home of the Valencia Onion you have heard so much about. Lots of beer on the border and onions in the valley. That's a good combination for those who like that kind of a mixture, but not for us.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. P. L. McCABE.

ELECTRIC SERVICE

AMONG BIGGEST INDUSTRIES

OF THE NATION

Electric service as we know it today is but a 42-year old institution. It came into being on September 4, 1882. On that day in New York City, under the direction of Thomas A. Edison, electricity was turned on at the generating station of the first service company large enough to be considered a commercial venture. A year later this New York company had 455 customers and had operated at a loss of $4,457.50.

Forty years later, that is, in 1922, there were 6,356 electric service companies in the United States with a total of 11,500,000 customers and employing 260,000 people. During that year these companies produced a total of 47,716,668,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy and had a gross revenue of $978,500,000.

For 1924 the gross revenue of these companies was well over a billion dollars ,the number of customers had increased to approximately 13,200,000 and the total production of electrical energy all but reached the sixty billion kilowatt hour mark thus making electric service one of the nation's biggest industries.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING OF POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE IN OCEAN BEACH

Miss Ruth E. Hemphill, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hemphill, of 4950 Narragansett avenue, was married at the home of her parents last Saturday evening, to Erol H. Slaughter, son of Mrs. C. L. Slaughter, of 4935 Niagara avenue. Rev. W. W. Hart, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. The pretty home wedding was attended by relatives and some intimate friends from Los Angeles. A profusion of sweet peas in dainty, pastel shades composed the house decorations and neat little ice cream baskets of sweet peas formed a like scheme in the refreshments. Following the wedding ceremony the happy young couple went on a honeymoon boat trip and will occupy their newly-furnished home in Normal Heights upon their return. Mr. Slaughter is a highly esteemed teller in the Southern Trust & Commerce Bank. Hearty congratulations by "The Beach News" staff are extended to the popular newly-weds.

HAPPY CELEBRATION MARKS BIRTH ANNIVERSARY OF I. A. HOLDRIDGE

A jolly good time was enjoyed by a large number of friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Holdridge at their resirence, 2143 Bacon street, last Saturday, Feb. 21st. The guests were received by Mrs. Holdridge, who made a most charming and hospitable hostess in honor of the celebration of her husband's fifty-fifth birthday anniversary. Pink and white formed the color scheme throughout the house, which was profusely adorned with pink and white roses and pink and white carnations. A bountiful buffet lunch was served at eleven o'clock, and there was a magnificent pink and white birthday cake.

Mr. Holdridge was the happy recipient of many useful and valuable birthday tokens. The out-of-town guests included:

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland, East San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Luinn Platuer, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eberhort, Mr. and Mrs. M. Harvey, San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Holdridge, Fresno, Calif.; Chief Petty Officers Joe Germain and Chas. Long, U. S. S.

Those from Ocean Beach in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lutter, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Chick Evans, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Oetinn, O. B. Wetmore, Miss Dorthe Dority, Al Zerves, Miss Alice Donnely, Cornelius Driscoll, James Donnely. BEST FOLKS AND BUYERS READ HOME-TOWN PAPERS

Your community paper which many adore
Is the same weekly friends as in days of yore.
It is yours when you need it, in sorrow and gloom,
In sunshiny weather or helping to boom.
It tells you of weddings, of births, of success,
Of churches, of schools and all that will bless;
Of land sales and auctions, and often will tell
Of chattels and things men offer to sell.

We hope you will read it, you will if you're wise,
And when you have something to advertise,
Use its columns most freely from week unto week,

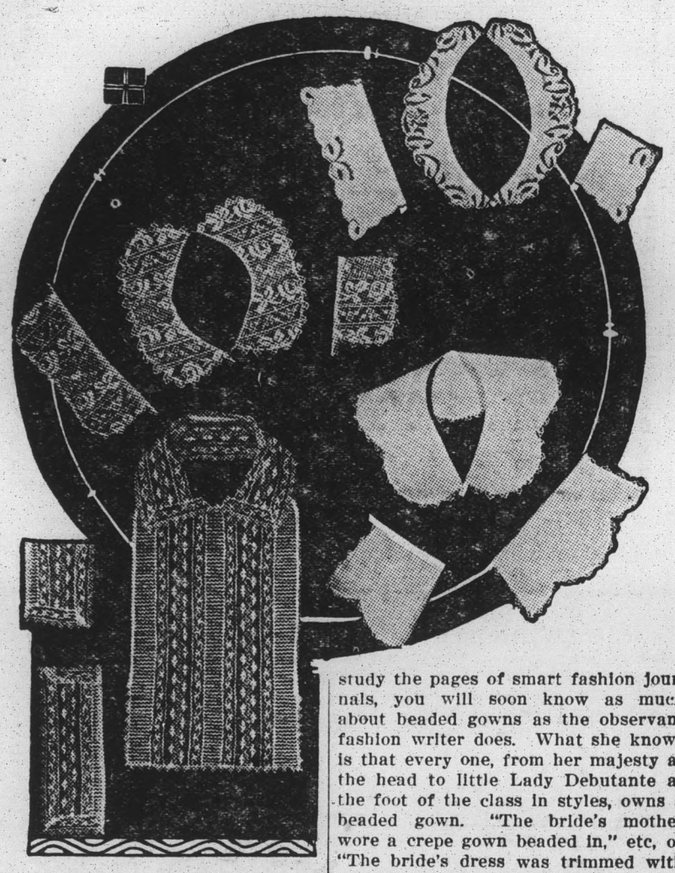
Pretty Things that are made at Home

THE most important item in dress accessories for the coming spring is sure to be neckwear, collar and cuff sets for wear with the plain, simple day frocks and coat dresses which fashion continues to sponsor. Printed and striped silks and crepe de chine, plain and striped linens, light weight flannel, kasha and other cloths, and many plain crepes appear in the displays of spring utility dresses and all of them look to collar and cuff sets for appropriate finishing.



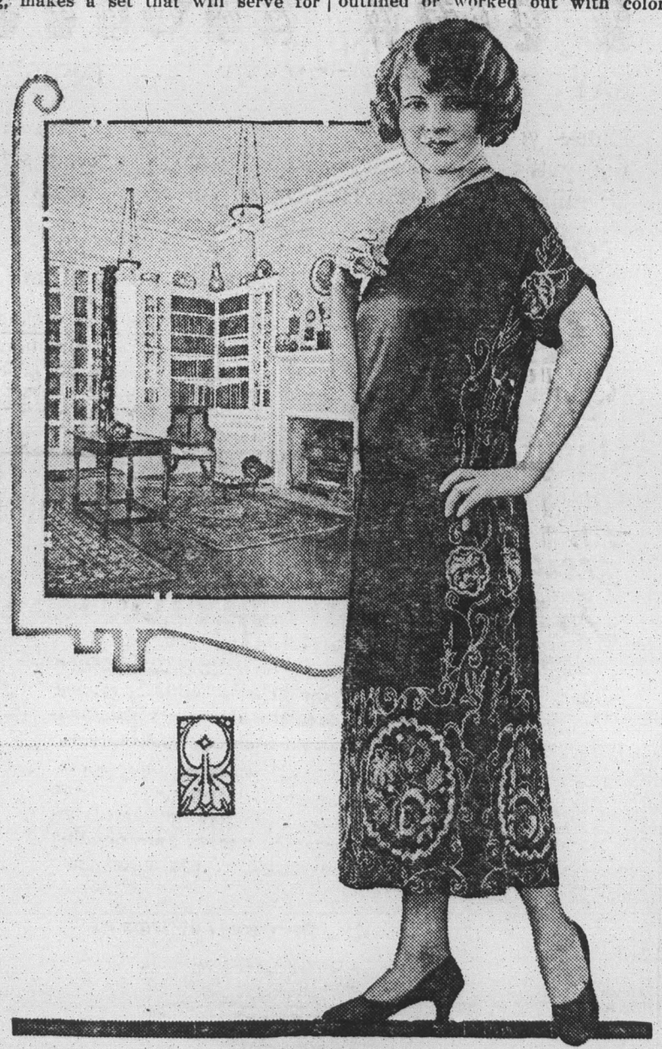
For the Handy Needlewoman.

For utility and sports dresses, plain or striped linens in natural and other colors are employed for making round collars and slightly flaring cuffs. Except for stitched bands or rows of little buttons this tailored neckwear is unadorned. But plain linen finished with narrow cluny edging, makes a set that will serve for day or sports dresses. A set of this kind with scalloped edges is pictured here. Needle-women who can embroider, may choose to introduce color on unbleached linen sets by means of colored floss. Handwork gives a class to neckwear which ready-made pieces can't equal. The designs are usually very simple with two or three colors employed. A set of this kind appears at the upper right of the picture. Even the amateur in needlecraft can make the pretty lace sets in which wide and narrow insertions are overcast or whipped together and finished with rolled hem and narrow Irish or cluny edging, as in the set at the left. A collar and vestee set with cuffs to match is pictured, made of lace insertions and pintucked net, which comes by the yard. In this set edges are finished with narrow val lace.

Besides the distinction of handwork in making them, sets acquired in this way are less expensive than ready-made pieces. Then there is opportunity for "the personal touch," which usually comes high, and the selection of attractive patterns in laces and in embroidery.

Now that we have our adoring eyes on spring apparel—while our budget for spring clothes resolutely stands between us and many things we desire—what shall we do about the beaded gown? If you will read society reports in the newspapers, look upon lovely ladies at social functions, or study the pages of smart fashion journals, you will soon know as much about beaded gowns as the observant fashion writer does. What she knows is that every one, from her majesty at the head to little Lady Debutante at the foot of the class in styles, owns a beaded gown. "The bride's mother wore a crepe gown beaded in," etc, or "The bride's dress was trimmed with lace, incrusted with crystal and pearl beads," or "Many ladies at the White House reception wore beaded gowns," impress themselves by sheer force of repetition. Therefore there is but one thing to do—take our budget firmly by the hand and lead it in the direction of beaded dresses.

In the new collections there are many lovely printed crepes, including georgette, in which floral patterns are outlined or worked out with colored beads. These are quite new and very attractive. There are also many beautiful crepe de chine dresses, more or less elaborately beaded. An example of gorgeous bead embroidery appears in a novel design on the graceful dress of crepe de chine shown here in the glowing color called "burnt russet." Fine restraint in working out the pattern makes this a gown which may be worn for the most formal as well as less formal occasions.



A Lovely Beaded Gown.

There is great variety in beaded gowns and a good many of them are quite inexpensive. Paris sponsors them, royalty wears them and therefore we cannot go wrong in choosing one for our "dressup" wear.

LITTLE FROSTED CAKES ARE EASILY MADE

Various Shapes May Be Used in Making Cakes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States Department of Agriculture has tested the cake recipe and frostings given below. This cake, if baked in a shallow pan about 9 inches square, is well adapted to cutting up into small fancy shapes. At least 20 diamond-shaped cakes 1½ inches wide can be cut with little waste from the amount given. Other fancy shapes may, of course, be used. These little cakes may then be entirely covered with white or tinted icing and decorated with bits of candied cherries or cranberries, angelica, jellied grapefruit peel, or tinted watermelon rind preserve, citron, or nuts.

Cooked Frosting.

White of 1 egg.
1 cupful sugar.
4 tablespoonfuls cold water.
⅛ teaspoonful salt.

Place all in a double boiler and beat with an egg beater until it holds its shape. Add salt and beat until thick enough to spread. Add one-half teaspoonful vanilla or other desired flavoring.

Chocolate frosting can be made in the same way by adding 2½ squares of chocolate, melted, to the sugar mixture when it starts to hold its shape. The frosting is beaten until stiff and then spread. Vanilla may be used or omitted with the chocolate according to taste.

For a caramel icing, half a cupful of sugar should be caramelized or browned in a pan, and an equal amount of boiling water added. Substitute two tablespoonfuls of this sirup in place of two tablespoonfuls of water and continue as in the foundation icing.

Plain Cake.

3 tablespoonfuls fat.
½ cupful granulated sugar.
1 egg.
2-3 cupful milk.
2½ teaspoonfuls baking powder.
1½ cupfuls pastry flour.
Flavoring as desired.
¼ teaspoonful salt.

The fat may be butter or any good cooking fat or oil. If it is butter or margarine an extra one-half tablespoonful of it should be used. Cream the fat with the sugar; add the eggs well beaten, the milk and flour alternately. Sift the baking powder and salt with one-fourth cupful of the flour, and fold in last, just after adding the flavoring. Bake in a nine-inch square pan, in a moderate oven (about 360 F.) for about 30 minutes, or until the cake is brown.

Uncooked Orange Icing.

2 egg whites, beaten stiff.
3½ cupfuls confectioner's (XXXX) sugar.
Grated rind of ½ large orange.
3 tablespoonfuls orange juice.
¼ teaspoonful salt.
½ tablespoonful lemon juice.

Add the water. Beat the egg whites with an egg beater until stiff. Add three cupfuls of sugar very gradually, beating continuously with a spoon. Add the grated rind and juice of the orange, the lemon juice, and remainder of the sugar. Beat until smooth enough to spread. This amount should cover five sides of over 25 little cakes cut as above described.

STAINS MAY EASILY BE ERASED AT HOME

Employ Reliable Methods and Act Promptly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most stains may be removed easily at home, provided reliable methods are known and a few simple precautions are taken. Prompt home treatment is necessary with some stains in order to save the article in question from being ruined, and in most cases it is desirable, since all stains are removed more easily when fresh.

The nature of a stain should be known, if possible, before its removal is attempted, since this determines the treatment to be adopted, the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture points out. If an unsuitable stain remover is used, the stain may be "set" so that its removal becomes difficult or even impossible. For example, if hot water, which easily removes most fresh fruit stains, is applied to stains containing protein, such as stains of milk, blood, eggs or meat juice, it coagulates the albumin in the fibers of the cloth and makes it extremely difficult to remove the stain. Similarly, soap, which aids in the removal of grease spots, sets many fruit stains.

Boiling Water Poured From Teakettle Is Effective in Removing Some Stains.

The kind of fabric upon which the stain occurs also should be known. The method of treatment adopted depends as much upon the nature, color, weave, finish and weight of the fabric as upon the kind of stain. Cotton, linen, wool and silk each require special treatment in certain cases. Details of these various methods of handling different stains will be furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In general, hot water should be avoided in treating unknown stains until after other substances have been tried; but for certain stains prompt application of boiling water poured from a teakettle held at a height of three or four feet above the stain is very effective. This is a good method to use on white or fast-colored material for most fresh fruit stains when still moist. Peach and berry stains usually respond well to this treatment. The stained material should be stretched over a bowl or other vessel and the boiling water poured upon it from a height sufficient for the water to strike the stain with some force. With some stains, especially those in which fruit pulp is present, a little rubbing alternated with applications of boiling water is helpful. A stain remaining after this treatment frequently can be bleached by hanging the wet material in the sun to dry.

The stains of cooked fruits are somewhat different in character from those of fresh fruit and are usually easier to remove. Ordinary laundering is often all that is necessary. The boiling water treatment can be tried for stains made by the dark red and purple fruits and berries, such as cranberries and black raspberries

Blancmange Is Flavored Milk With Cornstarch

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Blancmange is practically flavored milk jellied with cornstarch, arrow root, Irish moss, or some similar material. When gelatin is used, without eggs, to stiffen the milk, the result is sometimes called "ivory" or "velvet" pudding. A blancmange or ivory pudding into which egg whites have been folded is often called a "snow" pudding. All of these puddings are excellent served alone, with plain or whipped cream, or with stewed or crushed fresh fruit poured over them. Maple sirup and honey are good when other sauces are not in hand.

Butterscotch Blancmange.

1 quart milk.
6 tablespoonfuls cornstarch.
¼ teaspoonful salt.
1 cupful brown sugar.
1 tablespoonful butter.
¼ teaspoonful vanilla.

Heat the milk in the double boiler. Moisten the cornstarch in a little cold milk, add, stir until thick, and cook until the starchy taste disappears. In another saucepan melt the brown sugar with the butter until it is waxy, but not caramelized. Add this to the cornstarch mixture and add salt and vanilla. Cool, and serve with cream.

Proportions of Food

It is well to know what proportions to use of the foods in each of the five groups, the United States Department of Agriculture points out. As a rule, the diet will be sufficiently bulky and flavorful and will furnish the right proportions of starch, fat, and sugar for the taste of most people if the vegetables and fruits furnish about 20 per cent of the fuel; the milk, meat, eggs, and similar foods, 20 per cent; the cereal foods, 30 per cent; sweets, 10 per cent; and fats and fat foods, 20 per cent. A diet made up on these proportions will also furnish satisfactory kinds and amounts of protein, mineral substances, and vitamins.

Let Tanlac restore your health

IF your body is all fagged-out and run-down, if you are losing weight steadily, lack appetite, have no strength or energy—why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor.

Tanlac Restored Her Health

"Typhoid fever reduced me to 95 lbs. and left me weak as a rag. Failing to get relief from other sources I tried Tanlac and after 6 bottles had gained 20 lbs. Now I enjoy a fine appetite and feel like a new woman. As a nurse I give Tanlac to all my patients."

MR. PURVIS OF PENSACOLA

By HINTON GILMORE

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

Here is a story that will start you chuckling. Of course none of us are superstitious and maybe that's the season we never walk under ladders and always shiver when we see 13!

IF YOU chanced to read the journal of that date, you already know that on Friday, April 13, Mr. G. W. Purvis, dealer in hides, pelts, tallow and beeswax, left Pensacola bound for St. Louis.

But sometimes there is more to a casual journey to St. Louis than appears in the column devoted to "City Brevities and News of the Streets." Let us, therefore, violate the interstate commerce commission ruling on that subject, and ride free and unobserved with the well-known Pensacola dealer in hides and pelts, tallow and beeswax.

Nothing of greater pith occurred between Pensacola and Mobile than the minor interruptions of a young man with a semi-uniform, who had viands and magazines to sell, for Mr. Purvis, with thrift, chose to ride in a day coach.

At Mobile there boarded the train one "Oriole Joe" Maxey. It would not be a bad guess to venture that "Oriole Joe" carried in his satchel an ordinary gold brick of commerce, whose core, were it pierced by a suspecting gimlet, would have assayed heavily in lead.

His purpose in getting on at Mobile was twofold—to avoid the awakened attention of the police, and to sell one gold brick to the best commercial advantage.

"Oriole Joe" entered the car and sized up the occupants. He was quick to note the trusting eye and the receding chin of the Pensacolan. In the third seat beyond, he also observed another promising-looking prospect. Truly, this began to look like a prosperous sally into the marts of trade, and he bemoaned the fact that his extreme poverty prevented his purchase of lead sufficient for two marketable bricks. With one, it was a question of choosing between Purvis and the other prospect, a farmer who had just settled a mortgage on his home and was heading for New Orleans to buy an automobile.

Drawing a coin from his pocket, he designated Purvis, the pelt dealer, "tails," and the farmer who pined for rapid locomotion, "heads." There was a trifling spin of the disk. Maxey observed the result with a satisfied smile, and forthwith struck up an acquaintance with the farmer.

Ensuing events have no interest except to a New Orleans automobile dealer, whose well-devised plan of follow-up letters failed to bring in a promising prospect just when he seemed cinched.

Miss Celeste Adair, very attractive, though overdressed, boarded the train of Mr. Purvis of Pensacola, at New Orleans, ticketed ostensibly for Meridian. But she had something more in view than a short smoky ride upon the cars. Briefly and bluntly, Miss Adair was low in funds. Life in New Orleans is expensive, and the young woman, being a devotee of certain refined palaces of chance, longed for the wherewithal to make an uphill climb against Luck. Her object in taking a trip at this time was to make the acquaintance of some married person of home-town respectability, from whom funds might be drawn by that inelegant but often effective procedure of blackmail. Miss Adair chose the day coach as the most likely field for her endeavors.

Scarcely had the train left New Orleans when she observed Mr. Purvis. Here, in all innocence, was game. He looked just prosperous enough to stand for about a $250 monthly gouge for perhaps a year, before threshing it out over his own lares and penates, and then appealing to the police. Mr. Purvis, unconscious of the unkind scheme, scanned the quotations of the Hide and Pelt Dealer's Guide.

Miss Adair made her survey more inclusive. The car yielded, however, but one other prospect—a professor, perhaps, in a small school, or pastor tending the spiritual grazing of a small-town flock. From either of the two men the adventuress felt that there might be an income derived. It was a matter of no consequence to her which one paid. Being a follower in the ragged train of Chance she left it to her fickle highness.

Thrusting a dainty finger between the pages of a book she carried, she agreed with herself that if the number under her hand proved to be an even numeral Mr. Purvis should by that edict be chosen to rehabilitate the lowering funds of the young woman; if the numeral were odd, the distinction would descend upon the dignified gentleman with the clerical costume.

At Meridian, a man with beetling brow and formidable chin boarded the train and hurriedly approached the seat where Miss Adair sat in mirthful conversation with her companion. There were harsh words spoken low. Threats of divorce proceedings with corresponding publicity were effectively voiced. Some agreement was reached, and Miss Adair accompanied her beetle-browed confederate back to New Orleans on the next train. The president of a little college for girls over near the Alabama line is sending her $200 each month with which she is slowly recuperating her sunken losses.

Meridian added a few passengers to the train list, among them Harvey Collier, suavity itself. Dressed stylishly, manicured, polished and perfumed, he seemed out of place in the dingy day coach. But it was a question of business with him, and he lost no time in setting about his work. Standing in the doorway of the car, he sized up the field. Observing Mr. Purvis of Pensacola, he smiled. He almost went forward to take the vacant half of the seat, without further preliminaries. A second glance, though, revealed another promised dividend. Across the car and forward, sat a stout passenger, begirdled by a heavy gold watch chain.

Collier had a proposition in which he felt either might be interested. But complications might arise if he attempted to interview them both.

Collier, being weak on matters requiring instant decision, left the problem to Chance, ingeniously. If the next station bore a name of one syllable, he proposed to interest Mr. Purvis in his scheme, if of two syllables or more, the stout gentleman with the auriferous girdle was to be approached. The next station was Bartholomew, and two hours later Harvey Collier left the train at an obscure town in northern Mississippi, and the begirdled stout man perused a deed, reciting a consideration of $600, cash in hand, paid for certain city lots in the town of Subaqua, located, had he but known, twenty miles out in the Gulf of Mexico.

Without further incident, early morning brought the train to St. Louis, and the hide dealer from Florida, more wearied than rested by an awkward sleep gained while he crouched his angular self between resisting seats, arose, stiffened from his ungainly slumbers, and walked, blinking, into the station. Remaining just long enough at a convenient lunch counter to engulf a cup of coffee, he wandered aimlessly in a direction which he imagined would bring him into the business section of the city.

At five o'clock a. m. in outlying streets little traffic stirs in St. Louis. But at a darkened corner two men stood in the shadow and observed whatsoever might be moving. They saw the approaching Mr. Purvis and noted with satisfaction that he wore in the bosom of his seventy-five-cent shirt a diamond stud, which sparkled gayly.

The shadowed shadows decided upon seizure and forfeiture. A minute or so, and the prize was almost within grasp; being merely a question of a quick blow in the back of the man's head, a hasty pinch at the shirt bosom and a speedy getaway.

Closer came the prey. Suddenly "Lop-Eared" Hunt whispered:

"Nuttin' doin' tonight, bo! I've lost the rabbit's foot out of me pocket!"

Which goes far in explaining why Mr. Purvis, in perfect good health and humor, much refreshed by his walk from the station, came into the Continental hotel, aroused a sleepy night clerk and inquired for a room.

The Continental had but two empty rooms for the price at which Mr. Purvis desired to be housed. They were numbered, if you chance to be interested in such trifling statistics, 1323 and 1313. Given but two chances, with the necessity of making a choice, the clerk became vacillation personified. He seemed unable to select. First his hand stretched for the key to room 1313, and back again to No. 1323.

At that moment bell boy No. 13, seeking instructions relative to ice water desired, urgently, by a bibulous reservoir in No. 417, came within view of the hesitant clerk. He saw the boy's badge with its emblazoned "13" and considered the matter-settled propitiously, handed key No. 1313 to the menial who had charge of the new guest's solitary suitcase—shabby security for a much-desired ransom.

"Please call me at eight o'clock in the morning," the Pensacolan admonished as he vanished toward the elevator.

At eight o'clock, a dutiful servant rapped lightly on the door of Room 1313. No response came, and the rapping increased in rapidity and vigor. Still no response.

There came through the transom a wispy odor of fugitive gas. Quickly apprehensive (gas being expensive), the boy summoned his superiors, and the door was unlocked with a key sent up from the desk. There was an undeniable presence of gas. It wasn't even necessary to light a match to find the point of escape, for a low hissing from a pipe in the corner of the room gave a quick clew to the break. After pausing to shut off the supply at the point of intake, the hotel servants gave attention to the unconscious figure on the bed. Life existed in the crumpled heap of humanity, but at a low ebb. Physicians were summoned, restoratives were placed in operation, and very slowly the gentleman was brought back from the hem of the hereafter.

A reporter, inquisitive as his clan must ever be, sought, in addition to information gleaned from the hotel register, to learn more thoroughly the subject matter for his first yarn of the day. With no pang of impropriety he searched the clothing of the man who was being resuscitated. In an upper vest pocket, the reporter found a card which shall be read in your presence and the reading shall end the tale.

The card proclaimed the unconscious man to be:

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

FAIRY QUEEN'S VISITS

The Fairy Queen visited a hot house filled with flowers. It was evening and it was quite dark save for the torch which the Fairy Queen carried with her.

The Flower Fairy talked to the Fairy Queen and together they went about among the flowers with the Fairy Queen's torch lighting the way.

"Ah," said the Flower Fairy, "there are the little tulips. Such bright, cheery flowers as they are. They and their Crocus relatives close when it is cool and open when the warm sun shines upon them.

"Yet sometimes we play tricks on them—jolly, good-natured tricks which they do not mind. Sometimes the one who looks after the hothouse lets their part get cool ahead of time and they close and then he will warm it up again, and once more they open their heads.

"They go to sleep at night, people say, and yet they will go to sleep in the daytime too if it is cool. Maybe everyone doesn't know that."

"I must tell the fairies about it," said the Fairy Queen, "as they will like hearing that."

"Little daisies and marigolds open in the daytime and close at night," the Flower Fairy continued, "but if you make everything dark ahead of time the marigolds close their eyes and go right to sleep.

"They will do this as many times as you make it dark and will wake up as soon as it is light.

"Now little fulips will open day and night regularly should they be kept in darkness for any length of time. They will not be fooled forever!

"But Wild Camomile will open its petals all the wider when night comes as though not to miss any of the beauty of the night.

"Then there is the Sensitive Plant which closes when touched. Such a sensitive, sensitive plant!

"The Night Stock opens at night and takes its rest in the day as you might judge by its name. And it likes to give its fragrance to the evening.

"But not only should we admire the beautiful flowers, but we should have a good word to say for the little wriggling worms which keep the earth soft and loosened up as they go crawling and pushing along through it.

"They keep it open so that the rain can do its part. They, too, deserve a little praise."

The Fairy Queen agreed with the Flower Fairy and together they threw fairy kisses to the flowers as the Flower Fairy walked along a little way with the Fairy Queen.

She Talked to an Old Rat.

She rested in one of her Fairyland wayside corners that evening and the next day went visiting again.

Such a collection of creatures she visited. She talked to a sparrow who told her that his family had been brought over first to destroy caterpillars, but that they had been regretting it a good deal since as he had been pretty greedy himself about the crops.

And by that, he meant his whole family.

She talked to an Old Rat. Old Rat said the reason he liked people was because they were untidy.

"They leave crumbs around and so I thrive all over the world as all over there are always some untidy people."

Then she saw, later in the morning, when the rain and sun was having a talk, beautiful Mother Rainbow.

"Oh, Mother Rainbow," she said, "do tell me what you have been doing lately."

"Well, my children and the Raindrop children have been having merry games, and yesterday we had a double rainbow. Then my children who dress in violet took the outside places in the double part of the rainbow.

"You know, with a single rainbow the children who dress in red stand and group themselves on the outer part of the rainbow and those inside are my violet-dressed children. They do the opposite in the double rainbow.

"You're going?" Mother Rainbow asked.

"Alas, I must this time," said the Fairy Queen, "we have a party this afternoon in Fairyland. But maybe if I asked you, you might come?"

"I'll come," said Mother Rainbow, "if you ask the Raindrop children and my children and Mr. Sun."

"Hurrah!" cried the Fairy Queen. "I'll ask them all and what a party we will have!"

Waiter—Well, my little man, what are you going to have?

Small Boy (alone with menu)—You mean what ain't I going to have.

Worn Out Since the Grip?

WEAK, nervous—just tired and miserable most of the time? Back lame and achy, too? Rheumatic pains torture you at every step?

Then you should look to your kidneys! Colds and chills are apt to weaken the kidneys and allow toxic poisons to upset blood and nerves. Then may come daily backache, stabbing pains, headaches, dizziness, and irregular or painful passage of the kidney secretions.

Don't risk neglect. Help your weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills. Doan's have brought new health to thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A California Case

A. T. Jackson, hominy manufacturing business, 1439 S. Charter Way, Stockton, Calif., says: "My kidneys acted too often, and the secretions were filled with sandy sediment and irritated in passage. Sharp pains, like knife-thrusts, went through the small of my back and to get up or down was a real task. A couple boxes of Doan's Pills drove all this trouble from me."

Teach your child Internal cleanliness

THE mother who permits constipation in her baby or older child is risking the health, even the life, of her little one.

Fretfulness, feverishness, night terrors, grinding the teeth in sleep, biliousness, coated tongue, loss of appetite, any of these may indicate constipation. Poisons from the child's stagnant intestine are flooding the little body, and if left unchecked may lead to serious consequences.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Let your infant or child have Nujol regularly, and see rosy cheeks, clear eyes and happiness return once more.

Nujol is used in children's and general hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world.

APRIL AFTERNOON, POINT LOMA
1769

There feasted on these heights wild earth-hued folk,
Scoffing I know, and jesting in the sun.
"A whale, a mighty, a prodigious one Approaches!" mockers cried. Out of thin smoke,
Far, arching high into the sky there broke
Strange rotund shapes of Spanish sails, gray * * * dun,
The San Antonio, Christ's galleon,
Now raised Point Loma, now Guijarros woke.

What fear! The black sun hung within a veil;
The headland rocked, and those Coahuillas felt
Vague dread, the while crazed seabirds' rising wail
Made savage laughter into terror melt.
The ship of God heaved to; prayer like a gale
Swept down La Playa where awed Indians knelt.

IN '74

There was a woman journalist in town during 1874, who used the name "Maggie May." "Maggie May" you remember was the title of a popular song of the time, published in Peterson's fashion magazine. In her article of February 22, 1874, "Maggie May" says this:

"About a mile below the mouth of the river is the site of the city of Roseville, which is but a site in imagination as yet, but with a beautifully executed map to keep the imagination from soaring too high, although Mr. Rose has built a commodious and substantial hotel and wharf as a foundation or starting point for his own city. The site is one of the finest on the bay, which is saying much, but it does not yet suit the demands of the public; being too far from the business localities and, unfortunately, San Diego is not at present far enough advanced in her population to afford capitalists who would be content to reside in Roseville, however, beautiful, for its beauties alone. Mr. Rose is one of San Diego's oldest pioneers and has watched with interest the growth of his adopted home, and as he has unbounded faith in San Diego, will in due time come in for his share of the laurels, if not the capital. Some Chinese have a fishing camp near the wharf. There are also several families residing there; otherwise solitude reigns supreme.

The View From Point Loma

"The carriage road to the Lighthouse here leaves the shore and ascends to the mesa of Point Loma. The ascent is quite steep but one is more than repaid for the exertion of climbing it by the view obtained from the summit. To say that the scene is incomparable, gives but a faint idea of its real grandeur or beauty! The whole bay, with its surrounding towns; its shipping; the highways branching off in a hundred directions, and resembling the hand of some avaricious giant striving to draw all the surrounding hills and valleys to the bay; the three river mouths which yearly bring their springs to pour at the feet of the mild old Pacific, and the Peninsula which forms the boundary of our harbor, with its miniature bays; and the little cabins of the fishermen, with their boats flitting to and fro over the clear, blue waters; and then, on the outer shore, lie the continuous line of white-capped breakers coming and going with a sound that is "mournful and sad," so forcibly reminding one of the beautiful lines of Tennyson in his "Break, Break, O Sea" (sic.). Ballast Point also lies directly at our feet with the neat government buildings and busy workmen occupied upon the Fort. The clear ringing of their hammers reaches us as we stand and chimes with our thought very pleasantly, proving conclusively that man is improving the opportunities which nature has bestowed so lavishly upon him. But whilst we have been admiring and moralizing upon the scene, Time, that relentless old individual who is generally represented with the scythe and hour-glass, mowing down our hours of enjoyment with remorseless precision, has been here as usual and therefore I fear our trip to the Lighthouse must be deferred until some future time when we may be able to get a better start of that ancient 'mowist'."

And "Maggie May" continues on February 26:

"The lighthouse upon the extreme point of Point Loma is some fourteen miles from San Diego, and is approached by one of the most beautiful drives in the world, to those who enjoy the cool, bracing breezes wafted fresh from off the broad Pacific, or those who may have an eye for the more exquisite beauties of nature, for here the eye revels in a rare combination of her noblest works, and a feeling almost of awe comes over the admirer as he gazes, and wonders for the hundredth time that so much real beauty combined with utility can have remained so long as it has unappreciated, and he can only wish that some of those who so deride San Diego's manificent harbor could but view the scene with the same impartial gaze. The Coronado Islands, lying off the entrance about eighteen miles away, are just what was needed to fill the measure of the scene. With them all is complete.

Curious Action of the Elements

The gorges and banks upon the sides of the Point—which is about half or three-quarters of a mile in width—have been very curiously acted upon by the elements, and the earth—which appears to be of a species of clay of a reddish color—has been cut into a great variety of shapes, such as arches, bridges, miniature castles, etc., requiring but little or no imagination to form almost any object one would care to see. The views from the stereoscope would be superb. (Stereoscope!)

Moonshine Mixtures

Chief Longhorse, an Indian, who had made some money on oil land, bought a car from a salesman, who had pestered him for quite a while. Late the next day the salesman leaving his office noticed a figure approaching. It was Chief Longhorse. "His arm was in a sling and he looked as if he had undergone very rough treatment. Coming up to the salesman he grunted, "Want 'nother car." "What, another car?" I only sold you one yesterday," exclaimed the salesman. "Got him no more," said the Indian. "Take heap big drink moonshine; step heap much on the gas; telephone poles and fences go by vera fas; plenty soon see big bridge coming along the road; turn out to let bridge go by; BAM! car all gone!"
